A Word From Brandon

Wow one week and were back to updating this, I am typing this at 3:14 and I'm live in 45min, but guys were so committed to getting this to you that we can be a few min late to a school event at 6. This is BSN, come on we get the excuse... right?) But anyway in this post for Brandon's Blog we have a research paper! Cool? Yeah.. So take a look at that and also sign up with us at bbstudios.tv., when you do that you no longer have to download this and you can view it on the web as well as send in to BSN MAG and subscribe to the RSS, why not.... And sign ups free

What does BP do now To not bore you with the details BP is looking for any and every way to stop the worst oil spill in history... BSN Will continue to keep you updated

Busted, a United States citizen was busted and pled that she Impersonated an FBI supervisor

Yep, here's why she wanted to. She wanted to get her neighbor to work as her assistant. Nobody knows why she did it just yet

No tournament in Arizona... because one school admistator dosent agree Well it sucks to be The Highland Park High School varsity basketball team, because selling cookies to go to Arizona and working to go has been flushed, because of the Immigration laws... parents are outraged, as the students are. Its been 26 years untill they could do this, poor girls. Fox News reported that "a new Arizona law that makes it a crime to be in the country illegally will be enforced -- and because the trip "would not be aligned" with the school's "beliefs and values," Assistant Superintendent Suzan Hebson told the Chicago Tribune." So another example for one person talking for many, come on guys, let the girls play basketball!

3 possible suspects in the times square bombing

Body: The Feds just arrested three suspects in the Times Square Bombing today. Fox News reported "Attorney General Eric Holder said (MORE ON OUR WEBSITE)

-In California a few kids were wearing American flag t-shirts on Cinco de Mayo. The teachers made them turn the shirt inside out and the students refused. The students wound up leaving early.

Alright lets clear somthing up real quick. The Dows down, its not good. Alright today the down closed out at 10,520.32. Why is this bad.... Well the dow closed (down 300 points) yesterday at 10,866.83... Why is this happening? Three main things, 1. Government spending is screwing things. 2. The White House blaming BP for the oil spill, and the oil spill itself... 4/26 was the high of 11,258.01 so from 11 to 10, and running to 9. So heres a little advice... stop spending, stop pointing fingers, or our beloved Dows screwed...

Politicians say this though "It appeared a trading error may have accounted for much of the intraday plunge". Surrre...

Last week BP had a huge oil spill. President Obama is now announced that they should get to the bottom of how this happened, we will keep you posted here at BSN, but the question is, is BP really still green? Not so much...

Brandon's Blog (Opinion)

They enter as normal Americans with moral principles, and return indoctrinated radicals. These radicals will later bomb the pentagon and ruin the lives of many Americans. They had one goal, destroy democracy. The Students for a Democratic Society or SDS was developed from the past generation who were the roots of their radicalism. In effect to this, United States culture was changed forever. Students for a Democratic Society were very controversial in the United States culture during the 1960's.

The Students for a Democratic Society was very destructive. While not only being appalled of a nuclear war from the Cuban missile crisis, the Students for a Democratic Society were also angry and felt rebellious. The reason they felt that way, was because they felt strongly for a Marxist Revolution (Beck), and the United States Government felt the opposite. They were also tense because yelling and protesting didn't make as much of a difference, as opposed to blowing things up (Beck), physically and conceptually. They wanted to destroy the United States' traditional and moral values and replace them with unethical values (Committee of Internal Security). In effect of this they would be defending Corporate Liberalism (Gilbert, SDS and The Weather Underground), although they as a

TECH TIME

Wait a minute... doesn't Barack have a twitter, and used gadgets to get elected...

Am I right? President Barack Obama who won his election through YouTube and Twitter as well as Facebook through his computer and blackberry which he later auctioned on the internet just held a speech about these gadgets and websites. He told us very clearly that these gadgets would ruin democracy and take us away from getting the job done... wait a minute.... is that what President Obama would have said while he was getting votes via YouTube? Hippocrates much?

Impressive 13 usb hub, independently powered

Don't worry about wasting all the USB Hubs juice on your brand new printer while syncing your iPad, because with the iMO-NO you can plug up to thirteen things in and have it each individually powered, epic win? Or not just yet?

Surprised, Dell just came into the phone market, let me rephrase that, they are now better in the phone market. Windows Phone? Nope. The Streak, that Dells CEO Michael Dell has been bragging about has the Android software. Possibly available for ATT later in the future... My question is, where is HP with their phones in the market more...

Level UP

Small Section for maybe the top weekly post.

Details leaked about the NEW Call Of Duty

Here are some details:

Four-player co-op is confirmed.

You'll play at least two characters in multiple international conflicts.

American and Russian black operatives have been consulted. Given the above points, we reckon that means you might play on both sides of the conflict. Exact setting dates haven't been revealed, but the game will play out over a long period of history.

As black ops teams were privy to superior intelligence and had free access to any equipment they wanted, weapons and ammo will be more varied this time around. A military crossbow has been confirmed so far, but it's not just for sniping. CoD:BO (unfortunately aromatic acronym) allows on-the-fly ammo changes for some of its weapons, so the bow can also be fitted out with exploding arrows.

There's also an AUG assault rifle that will take multiple attachments

—group were far more progressive. Nevertheless being destructive is not as much of a definition for the Students for a Democratic Society then radicalism is.

Many things led to the Students for a Democratic Society's radicalism, but most come from their roots from the past generation. The first nicknamed "Red Diaper Baby's" were the decedents of the members of the horrific Communist Party in the 1930's (Horowitz). Not all members of the Students for a Democratic Society were decedents though; some were indoctrinated during a summer orientation program held from May 30th to June 1st 1969. This ultimately led to the envy of other countries (Gilbert, US Imperialism) with Socialistic or Communistic leaders. After watching the bomb in Hiroshima and the presidents reaction added many uneasy feeling toward the United States Government (Ayres). Unfortunately the United States Government didn't know much about the uneasy feelings (Segal) that helped make a huge impact on the country. This in turn allowed Students for a Democratic Society and later the Weather Underground to have a large impact when they acted.

Students for a Democratic Society impacted United States culture enormously in the 1960's and beyond. Many people although are unaware or uninformed about this radicalism thanks to the mainstream media never mentioning it today (Hannity). Nevertheless young people are not informed it still left a violent scar for the victim's that will remember the violent revolutionary action advocated by the Students for a Democratic Society (Students). The Students for a Democratic Society later transformed into the Weather Underground which bombed the Pentagon and promoted High School reform (Committee of Internal Security). This High School reform would lead to more indoctrination and more SDS/Weather Undergoundees.

SDS was an extremely radical group and was very destructive during the 1960's. They made a gigantic impact after they transformed into the Weather Underground and bombed the Pentagon. Students for a Democratic Society were extremely controversial and will leave Americans with radicalism they will always remember.
